Moodboard

Our inspiration comes from the idea that creativity has no limits. We want our brand to feel fun, welcoming, expressive, and full of new ideas. The lightbulb and happy face represent the excitement of creating something new, and our slogan “Think Outside the Box” reminds us to explore different perspectives and challenge conventional thinking.

02
Isologotype

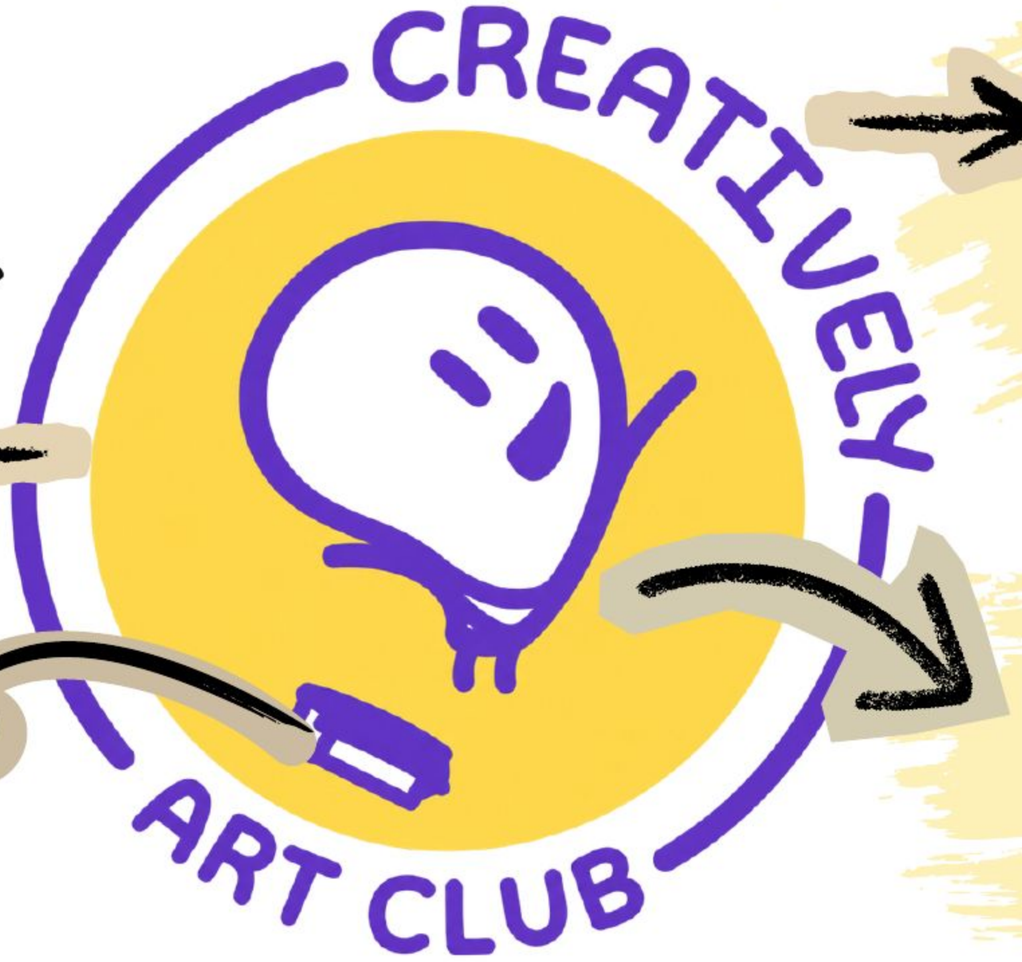

Isologotype

Creatively Art Club's logo is an isologotype because its text and graphic elements are integrated into a single design. The lightbulb represents creativity and new ideas, the happy face symbolizes the joy of self-expression, and the circle represents unity and the endless possibilities of creativity. Together, these elements reflect our mission to encourage artistic expression, creative thinking, and collaboration.

Isologotype

Creatively's symbol combines the text and the graphic elements into one integrated design.

Logo: Brand name, "Creatively," accompanied by its descriptor, "Art Club."

Symbol of the yellow circle: represents unity and belonging:

Symbol of lightbulb: A graphic element that represents creativity and ideas

Symbol of the box: A graphic element that represents that outside of the box has unlimited and unconstriant of possibilities

Brand symbolism

The lightbulb's arms and legs: give it a human-like personality, representing the active role members play in the creative process. They symbolize putting ideas into action, participating in projects, sharing talents, and learning from one another.

The yellow circle surrounding the lightbulb: a community where members come together to share ideas, express themselves, and learn from one another.

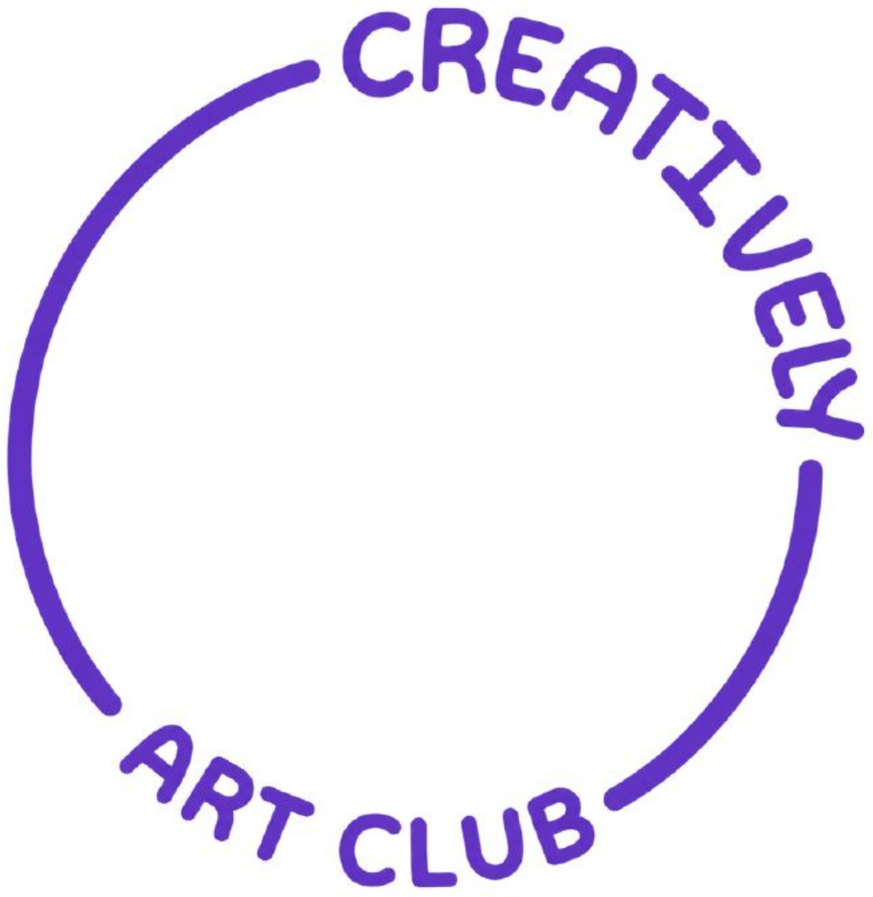

The lightbulb: the spark of inspiration that encourages members to explore new perspectives, question ideas, and solve problems. Its cheerful expression also reflects the joy of learning and creating together.

The box: possibilities, discovery, and creative potential. The open box represents a space where ideas are welcomed, developed, and brought to life.

Naming

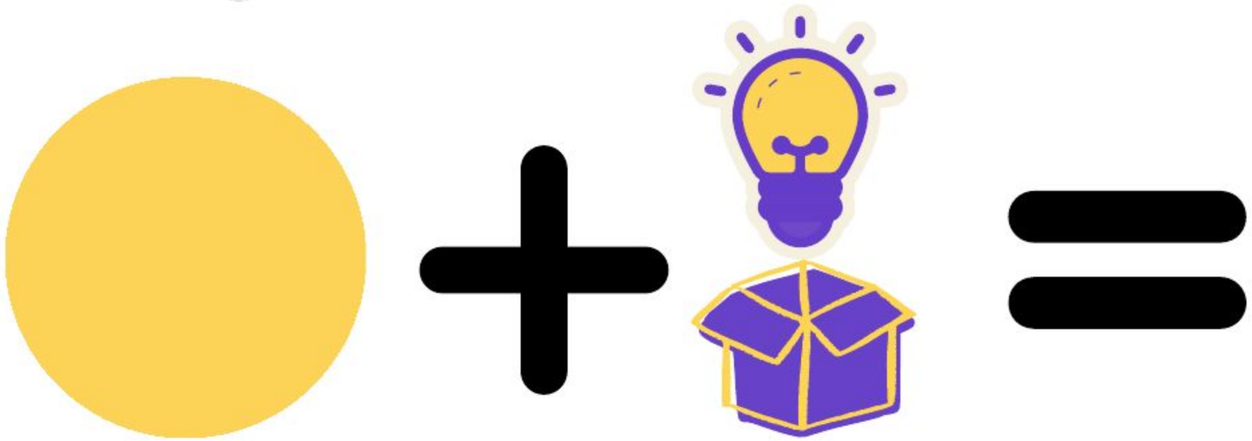

The name Creatively Art Club reflects the belief that creativity is more than producing artwork; it is a way of thinking, expressing oneself, and understanding the world. The word “Creatively” emphasizes imagination, originality, and the freedom to explore different ideas, while “Art Club” identifies the community as a space dedicated to visual arts, artistic experimentation, and collaboration.

Together, the name communicates the club’s mission to encourage members to express their individuality through creative projects, develop creative and critical thinking skills, and recognize the importance of visual arts in personal and collective growth.

The logo must remain recognizable and legible, and its proportions and approved colors must be preserved. These logo variations are primarily used for promotional materials, merchandise, and marketing purposes to strengthen Creatively's visual identity.

Correct usage of logo

The original Creatively logo and its officially approved color variations are the only authorized versions for official brand use. Any modification or application not specified in this branding manual is considered an incorrect use of the logo and is not permitted.

Individual brand elements, such as the circular symbol and rounded typography, may be used in mockups, promotional materials, merchandise, and creative applications when appropriate. However, all official club communications must prioritize the complete Creatively logo to maintain brand consistency and recognition.
